14 West 17th st., New York City.

Dear Sir: I had been suffering severely from kidney trouble. All symptoms were on hand; my former strength and power had left me; I could hardly drag myself along. Even my mental capacity was giving out, and often I wished to die. It was then I saw an advertisement of yours in a New York paper, but would not have paid any attention to it, had it not promised a sworn guarantee with every bottle of your medicine, asserting that your Swamp-Root is purely vegetable and does not contain any harmful drugs. I am seventy years and four months old, and with a good conscience I can recommend Swamp-Root to all sufferers from kidney troubles. Four members of my family have been using Swamp-Root for four different kidney diseases, with the same good results.

Very truly yours,
ROBERT BECKER.

You may have a sample bottle of this famous medicinal water.

EDITORIAL NOTICE.—If you have the slightest symptoms of kidney or bladder trouble, or if there is a trace of it in your family history, send at once to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, and a book containing many of the thousands of testimonials received from men and women cured. In writing, be sure to say that you read this advertisement in The Washington Evening Star.

REPORTS APPROVED.

Contractor Held Responsible for Settling of Curb and Paving.

Engineer Commissioner Beach has approved the reports of the sewer division holding Contractor P. D. Vinson, contractor for the sewer in L street between 16th and 20th streets northwest, responsible for the settling of curb and paving along the line of the sewer trench. Mr. Vinson some time ago protested against being charged with the expense of repairing this damage. He said that his trench was carefully braced, and that the settlement of the pavement could not have been due to the causes ascribed, but must have been caused by the presence of the old brick sewer which runs nearly parallel therewith.

O. L. Ingalls of the sewer division, in reporting on the matter, said that the settlement took place along the side of Mr. Vinson's work, and almost invariably over the old brick sewer. While the presence of the sewer may have contributed to the damage, Mr. Ingalls is of the opinion that under the terms of the contract the contractor is responsible. Paragraph 17 of the specifications reads: "If any pavements be injured by the contractor outside the limits prescribed by the trenches, the cost of restoring such excess shall be charged against him."

Malaria Causes Biliousness.
Greene's Tasteless Chills Tonic removes the cause.

against him and deducted from any amount due him." It is stated that sufficient funds are still in reserve on the contract to cover the cost of repairing the pavements referred to, and it is recommended that the necessary cost of such work be deducted from the amount due the contractor.

Captain Beach approved this statement, as he did also the following report from D. E. McComb, the superintendent of sewers: "The old brick sewer referred to by Mr. Ingalls was constructed about thirty years ago, and the pavement and other surface work over it have been in good condition for many years, with no evidence of settlement until after the work of constructing the sewer under Mr. Vinson's contract. The injury to the surface work was the result of the contractor's operations, and according to the contract, as quoted above, is chargeable against his account."

Coroner Nevitt was summoned to the home of Elizabeth Williams on Sheridan avenue, Hillside, this morning, because of the sudden death of Mrs. Williams' child, aged two months. There had been no physician in attendance before the child died, and the coroner was called upon to give a death certificate.

REGIMENT NOW READY

Command of High School Cadets Regularly at Work.

EASTERN HAS BUT ONE COMPANY

Increased Enrollment at Business High School.

EQUIPMENT IS INADEQUATE

With the close of the month of October—less than four weeks' actual drill time—the regiment of District of Columbia High School Cadets has been formed, the officers appointed, assignments made and regular and systematic plans of work put in operation. All cadets are enlisted at the opening of the term for the school year. The enlistment blanks used by the cadets, which are indorsed by the parent or guardian, and signed by the cadet, form a contract with the school which makes this feature of school life as binding as any of the requirements for study. For fully one-half the regiment these signatures are those of first-year boys. This statement will give some idea of the problem which falls on the officers and military instructor, Col. Burton R. Ross, not only this year, but every year—the problem of making out of so large a proportion of raw material a regiment which by May shall stand against the most exacting ideals of cadet performance.

There have been a number of changes in the form of organization by reason of new conditions within the High School. At the present time the technical school is housed within the Central High School building, with its two hundred boys taking the new course. By the act of the board of education this school is permitted to identify itself with the High School Regiment under the same conditions of control and management that obtain in the high schools. Companies C and D, with sixty men each, have been organized under the officers of the technical school. These, with Companies A and B, from the Central School, form the first battalion, under Major Winter of the Central School.

Change in Organization.
For many years the Eastern High School has maintained two companies which have, with great credit, represented Capitol Hill in the annual contest. Naturally it is a matter of great regret that the number of boys in school made it impossible to secure a sufficient number of enlistments to continue two companies as heretofore. Every effort was made by the principal and teachers of the school, and by the boys to whom the officers' positions would have come, to secure the extra company, without success. As a consequence, the Eastern School will be represented this year only by Company F. The people of Capitol Hill are delighted that Col. Barnes of the Eastern School won the coveted company.

It should be known to the public that the scholarship record of fourth year boys determines who shall be candidates for the regimental positions. By regulation of the board of education first candidates, divided among the various schools—five to the Central, four to the Eastern, three to the Technical and three to the Western High School—are certified for examination, which is conducted by officers of the National Guard, who make appointments upon the results of the test, entirely disregarding the scholarship ratings. In other words, only the best students can get into the examination and the best one of those students, from a military point of view, is selected by competition for the honor of wearing the colonel's sash. For the first time in the history of the High School, this honor went to the Eastern School this fall. As soon as it was known that it was im-

Furniture by the Carload.
Two more carloads of furniture—one of Bed Room Furniture—one of Sideboards. We are glad to make these reports to you. They tell you more than the mere fact that the stock is up to every limit of completeness. They speak of the business going on here. They tell of selling that makes such big purchases necessary—with the pricing that causes such selling. Deduction, so to speak.

The Sideboard Samples.

Construction counts. The very excellence of the construction of these "boards" makes the pricing strange. Bought from one of our regular makers, so we know whereof we speak, even if we hadn't the boards to speak for themselves.

The demand for odd Dressers grows all the time. An opportunity such as this is doubly fortunate in consequence. Regular stock doesn't show better pieces. The designs are up to the minute. The finishes still show their factory freshness.

possible to raise two companies on Capitol Hill, the Business High School, with the energy characteristic of this hustling institution, set to work to supply the lack of our company in the second battalion. The principal of this school reported October 24 the enlistment of 120 boys, which assures the regiment its customary complement, two battalions of four companies each.

The company at the Georgetown school is large and the Western High School is enthusiastic over the material for Company H.

Regiment Poorly Equipped.
During the closing days of June, by direction of the inspector general of the army, the equipment of all the high schools was formally inspected by Captain Parkhurst. This officer, while commending the equipment which has been given to the schools during the years they have been in use, was emphatic in his recommendation that the War Department should undertake the repair of those that are much worn, even going so far as to recommend that the whole equipment should be returned to the armory at Springfield for reconstruction. This recommendation was received with enthusiasm by the cadets, who have long regretted that their rifles should be out of date and in poor condition. There is now the chance that Congress may do something in this connection during the present winter.

The new uniforms are contracted for the 15th of November. By the 1st of November the entire regiment, uniformed, equipped and well drilled, will be ready to appear before the public with the promise of that high standard of work which has won the favor of the city through their annual exhibitions in May.

Administration Reciprocity.
To the Editor of The Evening Star:

The administration is republican. Protection is a cardinal principle of republicanism. Reciprocity is a provision of the Dingley tariff act, as it was of the McKinley. It is not hostile to the spirit of those laws, but in harmony with them. The republican platform indorse it, if applied without detriment to domestic manufacture or home labor. McKinley favored it the day before he was shot, not as a new light, but as a ray steadily visible over ten years. Nor was it the distorted beam of free trade vision, nor colored in the slightest degree in a Cobdenish tone.

Let us analyze it as presented by our martyred President. "By sensible trade arrangements which will not interrupt our home production we shall extend the outlets of our increasing surplus." "We should encourage our customers such of their products as we can use without harm to our industries and labor." "Reciprocity is the natural result of our country's industrial development under the domestic policy now firmly established." "The excess (our surplus) must be relieved through a foreign outlet, and we should sell everywhere we can and buy wherever the buying will enlarge our sales and productions, and thereby make a demand for home industry." "Every sentence runs against the fear of liability of injury to domestic industries and labor. Every word is in harmony with the spirit of his life teaching."

Now, friends, for the record. American Americans seek to undermine our industrial system by a reciprocity that will be fatal to our industries. The law-making power is also in part the treaty-making power, and if it finds injurious free trade labeled "reciprocity" it should excise it promptly, or, failing in that, prevent ratification. Here is where the scrutiny of wisdom should come in, to make every proposed treaty of reciprocity harmless. A treaty made by a single commissioner on each side, dealing with complicated and intricate tariff systems, should not be ratified without scrutiny simply because it bears the label of reciprocity. To have a customs law passed and then deliberately nullify it, either thoughtlessly or carelessly, is a stultification that no congressman can afford to indulge in. Reciprocity is a tariff which will reduce production in exchange for similar reductions by the foreigner; but do not kill a large industry for an insignificant increase of an unimportant article of exportation. There are items in these treaties that give a very valuable consideration for the merest bauble. In return, they should all have the strictest scrutiny of the friends of American industry in the Senate. Let us have a reciprocity that reciprocates. If it shall be a boon to foreign trade it must not be a burden to domestic industry.

Joseph Chamberlain Announces New Rules for the Commons.
A dispatch from Edinburgh last night says: Joseph Chamberlain, the colonial secretary, addressing more than 8,000 persons in Waverley Market, Edinburgh, tonight, announced that the government intended to frame new rules for the house of commons so as to limit Irish obstruction.

"We propose," said he, "to bring forward rules which shall give to the majority of the commons greater control over their own business and greater control over the men who insult and outrage it; and we shall endeavor to protect the mother of parliaments from those who would destroy her usefulness and reputation."

But this was not the only thing Mr. Chamberlain declared the government intended to do. "The present representation of Ireland," said he, "is an abuse and a scandal. No alteration can be made except in immediate anticipation of a general dissolution of parliament, and we are not contemplating that. But when we get nearer to the time we shall ask you whether you think Irish representation is so precious to you, is so valuable to the national interests, that it is desirable to continue it on a scale which gives the Irish a representation enormously exceeding the proportionate representation of Scotland and England."

The colonial secretary went on to say that on the basis of population Ireland had thirty members too many in the commons, and on the basis of her contributions for imperial purposes, as considered at the time of the union, she had from forty to fifty members too many.

"I say that this constitutes an abuse," he continued, "and there is no reason why it should be perpetuated."

In another part of the speech he said: "If those gentlemen who now openly shout for the Mahdi and pray for the Boers; if they had a parliament of their own; if all the strings of Irish government had been in their hands; if they had had the power, is it not certain that they would have refused to pay their contribution to the war and that they would have placed us in a position of embarrassment?"

The relations of the parliamentary opposition with the Irish party, Mr. Chamberlain said, would be considered "dangerous to the empire."

The Koch Consumption and Asthma Cure.

I am here, having returned from Europe. I am now prepared to say that I positively cure Consumption and Asthma by my latest Inhalation process.

I have made the cure of Consumption and Asthma my lifetime study. The old method of injecting the tuberculin medicine is now little used, but by the use of my wonderful Inhalation apparatus, the healing oils, combined with the Koch tuberculin, which kill the germs, are thrown into the lungs so they can be breathed into the air tubes of the lungs. The effect is wonderful; they heal up the sore places and give new life to patients having lung diseases.

This treatment stands alone as the only cure for that fatal scourge, Consumption. The Washington office is at 627 E street northwest. Consumption starts upon its victim like a thief in the night, and before he is aware of its true condition his catarrhal discharge has so poisoned the air tubes of the lungs that they begin to break away and decay, and he becomes an unwilling slave to its ruinous consequences. It generally begins as an ordinary catarrh in the nose or throat, the discharge of which drops down into the air passages, especially at night, while asleep, until they, too, are infected, when the following symptoms are present: There is a constant hacking and spitting, tickling in the throat, causing frequent attempts to clear it; raising tough or yellow mucus, sometimes pressure across the chest, a languid, tired feeling, headache, dizziness, and in later stages a loss of flesh.

Indeed, catarrh is well known to be a certain forerunner of not only Consumption, but Asthma and Bronchitis. Consultation, examination and one treatment free. Remember the number, at the original Koch Cure, 627 E street northwest, Washington, D. C.

Special Correspondence of The Evening Star.

LAUREL, Md., October 26, 1901.
Beginning with tonight the political fight in Laurel will be waged with but little or no interruption until the 5th of next month. The democrats will have a mass meeting at the Academy of Music here this evening and have made arrangements to make the event a success in every way. They have secured a large number of speakers, among whom are candidates for state honors. The democrats put a good deal of reliance on the operation of the recent election law. This feeling of confidence is most with an equally hopeful view on the part of the political republicans, who, although the time has been short in which to break in the literatures, are assured of the good showing made in the instruction of those who were heretofore unable to meet the requirements of the law.

At the meeting tonight the speakers will be Joseph L. Wilson, Frederick Dallam, candidate for the state legislature from Laurel; Robert W. Brooks, James W. Rawlings, Robert W. Wells, Henry Hager, G. T. Grimes, P. A. Scaggs, C. H. Turner, George W. Hardy, John Miller, R. Lee Mander, and Frederick M. McGee. The meeting will be called to order at 8 o'clock.
